Press Release Issued by McLeod Law Group: McLeod Law Group Expands to Columbia

MCLEOD LAW GROUP OF CHARLESTON, SC OPENS OFFICE IN COLUMBIA, SC

This morning McLeod Law Group opened a second office location in Columbia, South Carolina on Devine Street. Columbia Attorney, Tad McLeod has been hired by MLG and will work out of the Columbia office location.

McLeod Law Group is a personal injury law firm and was founded by W. Mullins McLeod, Jr. in the fall of 2011 and has been operating in downtown Charleston since its founding. MLG has seen a stream of success and has earned a positive reputation for representing its clients in a vigorous fashion. Most notably was MLG's jury verdict in an police misconduct, excessive force case where a federal jury awarded a record breaking $97.5 Million Dollar verdict against former police officer Randall Price and the Town of Cottageville.

"Today is an exciting day for our law firm" founder Mullins McLeod stated, "We have been working hard on giving our clients and those seeking legal representation across the state easier access to our office and I am excited about opening an office in the state's capital."

Columbia Attorney and Newberry County native, Tad McLeod, who served as a surface warfare officer in the United States Navy prior to entering law school, has been practicing law for seven years said "I am delighted to join McLeod Law Group and to continue representing South Carolinians through the practice of law."

MLG's Columbia office is open and can be contacted at: 2909 Devine Street, Columbia, SC 29205. Phone: 803-451-6057.
